WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED

The American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular.

[ESTABLISHED 1852].

PUBLICATION OFFICE, FRANKLIN SQUARE (330 PEARL STREET), NEW YORK.

VOL. XXXVIII., No. 2. NEW YORK, July 12, 1890. WHOLE No. 963.

Sergel's International Library.

Under this general name Sergel & Co. will publish a series of popular novels by the best foreign and American authors. An effort will be made to issue the books in a style commensurate with their literary excellence. A royalty will be paid to the foreign authors, and nearly all of the books will be illustrated. The attention of dealers is called to two important features of Sergel's International Library, viz.: the liberal discount given to the trade, and the fact that the books will not be controlled by any one jobbing house. The first number of this series is

The Kreutzer Sonata.

By COUNT LEO TOLSTOÏ.

This is the author's boldest book and is the reigning sensation. It has already had an immense sale. Dealers are cautioned not to accept any imperfect or abridged edition. To obtain the only complete and unexpurgated book order SERGEL'S EDITION. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

In July we shall issue, as number two of SERGEL'S INTERNATIONAL LIBRARY, a handsome edition of a new novel by George Ohnet, entitled Peter's Soul.

This is destined to be one of the most popular books by this favorite author. The cover will show a handsome and unique design, and the book will be beautifully illustrated. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

ADVANCE ORDERS SOLICITED.

SERGEL'S INTERNATIONAL LIBRARY is available at second-class rates.

SERGEL & CO., Publishers, 79 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

LOVELL'S RECENT BOOKS.

THE GENTLE ART OF MAKING ENEMIES. By J. McNeill Whistler. Being a collection of his writings edited by himself. 12mo, cloth, gilt cover specially designed by Mr. Whistler, $2.00.

Cable message to N. Y. Times, Sunday, June 15, says: "The sumptuous Whistler Book makes its appearance to-day. It is delightfully unique throughout. Nobody can read the book without surprise at the astonishingly high average of brilliancy. The volume itself is a beautiful production."

LUX MUNDI. The great theological sensation of the day in England. Only edition authorized in America. A Series of Studies in the Religion of the Incarnation. Edited by Rev. Charles Gore, M.A., Principal of Pusey House, and Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.75.

"A volume of thoughtful and well-written essays. They are an attempt to show that between theology rightly interpreted and the best modes and results of modern philosophy there is no real discrepancy. The task is noble, and the writers are well qualified to essay it, and to all thoughtful readers the book will be one of deep interest. In the way of devout treatment and reverent handling of great themes, all these essays leave nothing to be desired."—Record.

"As a rare intellectual pleasure we can justly say that we have not often chanced upon a reading equal to that of 'Lux Mundi,' and as a defence and confirmation of the Faith nothing more acceptable has for a long time come in our way."—The Churchman.

"No one can lay down this volume without a feeling of respect for the authors and for the motive which has impelled them to undertake their task. They seem, at all events, to have traced the lines within which, if at all, the reconciliation of religion and science may be looked for."—New York Sun, June 29, 1890.

REINCARNATION. By E. D. Walker. Lovell's Occult Series, No. 6. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Reincarnation," by the late E. D. Walker, is an exhaustive treatise on the subject, tracing and quoting authorities in a comprehensive and lucid manner at once interesting and free from any detail and tiresome quotations in the text. An appendix carefully prepared gives reference to similar works in other languages, and the work is also carefully indexed. This edition is printed from plates which were revised and corrected at the author's solicitation but a few days before his unfortunate death.

IDYL OF THE WHITE LOTUS. By Mabel Collins. And Epitome of Theosophical Teachings and Esoteric Theosophy. Lovell's Occult Series, No. 7.

"The Idyl of the White Lotus," which has been so popular in both England and America, in expensive binding, has been issued in this series, together with an Epitome of Theosophical Teachings, by William Q. Judge. "The Idyl of the White Lotus" is a prose poem of wonderful strength, breathing an atmosphere of sublime philosophy at once entertaining, instructive, and elevating.

PAPA'S OWN GIRL. By Marie Howland. Lovell's American Novelists' Series, No. 45. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

A SCARLET SIN. By Florence Marryat. Lovell's International Series, No. 77. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

BY ORDER OF THE CZAR. By Jos. Hatton. Lovell's International Series, No. 78. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

A WOMAN OF THE WORLD. By F. Mabel Robinson. Lovell's International Series, No. 92. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

SOLDIERS THREE, AND OTHER STORIES. By Rudyard Kipling. Lovell's International Series, No. 98. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

THE HOUSE ON THE SCAR. By Bertha Thomas. Lovell's International Series, No. 101. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

NOTES FROM THE NEWS. By James Payn. Lovell's International Series, No. 108. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"It is just the book to be taken up when one has two or three minutes to fill."—The Speaker, London.
"The light, gossipy style in which the paragraphs are written, and the general information contained in them, should make the book a pleasant holiday companion."—Glasgow Herald.

HER LAST THROW. By the Duchess. Lovell's Westminster Series, No. 1. Paper, 25 cents.

THE MOMENT AFTER. By R. Buchanan. Lovell's Westminster Series, No. 2. Paper, 25 cents.

IN PRESS FOR EARLY PUBLICATION.

THE PHANTOM RICKSHAW. By Rudyard Kipling. International Series, No. 103. Cloth gilt, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

THE STORY OF THE GADSBYS. By Rudyard Kipling. Paper, 25 cents.

THE PROSE DRAMAS OF HENRIK IBSEN. Second volume. Edited by Edmund Gosse. Containing: "The Lady from the Sea," "An Enemy of Society," "The Wild Duck," "The Young Men's League." Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

The remarkable reception with which the first of these volumes met renders it necessary only to announce that the second is now ready.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MGR. BERNARD O'REILLY has in preparation a defence of the Roman Catholic Church in France which will be published in the French language by Firmin Didot & Co., Paris. He expects to have ready this fall the life of Archbishop McHale of Tuam, who was contemporary with the great O'Connell and who died some years ago at the age of ninety-one. As soon as Mgr. O'Reilly consented to undertake the work the family of the Archbishop placed at his disposal all his political and private letters and documents. The object of the work is to prove that Parnell and the Home Rulers are simply carrying out the plans of O'Connell and "John of Tuam."

A LARGE boulder has been planted at Coopers-town on the site of Cooper's old home, which was burned in '53. It is surrounded, says a correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, "by an iron fence, and on one polished face of the stone this inscription has been cut: 'On this site stood Otsego Hall, the home of James Fenimore Cooper, where he lived from 1834 to the day of his death, September, 1851. Built in 1798 by Judge William Cooper; destroyed by fire October, 1853.' There is no other monument to the novelist in the town which he made famous; but there is a movement in progress to erect one by public subscription."

MR. GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND, who is widely known by his pseudonym of "Gath," has just published a novel or romance based upon the political intrigue which was designed to ruin Alexander Hamilton while Secretary of the Treasury, and has included in the plot the interesting and hitherto mysterious relations of Mrs. Reynolds to him. The story is one of the most exciting and dramatic in American history, and in his romance Mr. Townsend relies largely upon his own investigations, which appear to have been most exhaustive. The book is likely to excite criticism because the intimation is plain that Jefferson aided if he did not conceive the conspiracy to ruin Hamilton. Mr. Townsend's ardent sympathy with the old Federalists is manifested throughout the book, and his great admiration for Hamilton he glories in making evident.

ABOUT a year ago Franz Hedrich, a Bohemian author, agitated German literary circles by claiming to be the author of the best of Alfred Meissner's novels. Hedrich quoted from Meissner's letters to him passages which proved beyond doubt his authorship of the tragedy "Warbeck, or, the pretender of York," and of the novels "Between Prince and People" and "Black Yellow," all of which works appeared with Meissner's name alone on the title-page. He also pointed out how he had interwoven with the text of important scenes of "Princess of Portugal," "Norbert Norson," and other novels given out by Meissner the proof of his authorship in the form of an acrostic, "Hedrich, Author." Although Meissner had been his bosom friend for twenty-five years, Hedrich did not hesitate to denounce him. To this Meissner's brother-in-law, Karl Bayer, better known by his pseudonym "Robert Byr," made reply which was generally considered inadequate. Hedrich retorted by libelling "Byr" and his family, which called out a challenge from "Byr" which was declined by Hedrich. Since that Hedrich has published a number of letters and a pamphlet blackening his dead friend's fame. The outcome of all seems not to have been the rehabilitation of the dead poet and novelist in the estimation of the German literary world. Hedrich's proofs of his authorship of the tragedy "Warbeck" and of "The Princess of Portugal" and "Norbert Norson" and "Black-Yellow" are said to be beyond rebuttal. In claiming "Samsara" and two or three other works published in Meissner's name, however, Hedrich is generally acknowledged to have overreached himself and to have rendered himself justly liable to "Byr's" accusations. "Hedrich has dragged Meissner in the mire," says a Vienna feuilletonist, "but he has degraded himself beneath the notice of respectable men in doing it."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; in the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

*Angel or devil; what the world thinks of woman. N. Y., Minerva Publishing Co., 1890. 12°, (Minerva ser., no. 19.) pap., 50 c.

Baker, Beth. Mystery Evans. Bost., De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., 1890. c. 256 p. D. cl., $1.

The usual love-tale; the scene changes from a New England town to Montana. The hero is a rich young Englishman owning a ranch, who advertises his desire to correspond with some educated American girls, in order to study their peculiarities. A letter reaches him signed "Mystery Evans." The girl who writes it is the heroine, both she and the hero going through many adventures before they meet.

Chamberlain, N. H. What's the matter? or, our tariff and its taxes. Bost., De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., [1890.] 4-268 p. D. pap., 50 c.; cl., $1.

The scene is a grocery-store in a busy little New England town. A number of workmen have assembled here, and are congratulating each other upon the late Republican victory and the election of Harrison. While talking, one of their friends comes in and tells them there has been a lockout at the "big foundry." They apply to the squire, who is passing, for an explanation of this, whereupon ensue many conversations upon the tariff, taxes, protection and free trade, wages and the tariff, etc. The "squire" is a Democrat, and he argues from the standpoint of "a tariff for revenue only."

Drury, Rob. Madagascar; or, Robert Drury's journal, during fifteen years' captivity on that island, and a further description of Madagascar by the Abbé Alexis Rochon; ed., with an introd. and notes, by S. Pasfield Oliver. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 398 p. il. and map. O. (Adventure ser.) cl., $1.50.

"Robert Drury's journal" was first published about 1760. This edition gives an introduction by Captain S. Pasfield Oliver, who thinks that either Defoe or one of his disciples must have done much editorial work on the sailor-boy's manuscript. Drury is supposed to have been a captive for fifteen years on the island of Madagascar, during which he studied its geography and history and natural characteristics. All later writers on Madagascar acknowledge themselves indebted to this journal.

Fabian Dimitry, a young successful playwright, falls in love with a young English girl, but learning that insanity is hereditary in her family he does not ask her to marry him. His intimate friend, after first trying to combat Dimitry's scruples, marries the girl himself. After several months circumstances bring Dimitry to live with his former friend, a practising physician in New York City. He there discovers that the hereditary curse has taken the form of kleptomania in his friend's wife. He once more sacrifices himself to shield his former love, and the measures he takes furnish a highly dramatic ending.

- A quiet domestic story of German life, in which love and marriage play a large part. Lucie is a penniless young girl who has been a governess; she is betrothed to a young doctor, and makes his mother a visit before their marriage. Here the events take place which form the story.
- Henry, W. G. Gilbert Thorndyke; or, a man of his word. Bost., De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., [1890.] 2-199 p. D. (The green paper ser., no. 19.) pap., 50 c.
- The scene is laid in Boston; two society girls are rivals for the love of Gilbert Thorndyke. The unsuccessful one plots to mar the happiness of her cousins and involves one Richard Awkright in a scheme that causes much unhappiness. The unforeseen finally occurs, Maud Dexter confesses and Richard Awkright is convicted of a crime that cuts off his career as a society man, and the dénouement of the story is pleasing.

This, the latest history of exploration in Africa, is a terrible story of human suffering and endurance and self-sacrifice. Besides the interesting details of the inception of the expedition in London in 1886 to its arrival in Africa and its journey up the Congo to its confluence with the Aruwimi, where Stanley proposed to make his depot and base of supplies, there are a perfect wealth of adventures. Among the more important incidents are the horrible march through the great forest region along the course of the Aruwimi River, the pitiful experiences of Capt. Nelson in Starvation Camp, the joyous discovery of the grass lands, the arrival at Albert Nyanza, the return to the forest and the construction of Fort Bodo, the second journey to the lake and the meeting with Emin, and finally the march back to Banalya in search of the missing rear column, the story of whose unfortunate fate concludes the first volume. The second volume contains a study of Emin Pasha and additional researches and adventures.
- Stockton, Frank R. The Merry Chanter. N. Y., The Century Co., 1890. c. '89. 2+192 p. il. D. pap., 50 c.
"The Merry Chanter" is the name of a ship belonging to a young married couple in a small New England town. The wife "Doris" has inherited it, and the newly made husband and wife agree to put a cargo aboard her and sail to some "far-off seas." To get the cargo they have to go to Boston and embark with a captain and crew at Moosely, a little town on the sea-coast. One accident after another prevents them starting, while all the time their numbers are being increased—several passengers having applied for passage to Boston. The ship never does sail, but life aboard of her is made very amusing—many funny incidents being evolved, in which the owners, the passengers, and the crew take part.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 12, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SINCE the "pirating" reprinters have hauled down the black flag, at least to half mast, and entered the English market as buyers from English authors of advance sheets or such "rights" as they could sell, the tables have been turned in several cases, and houses having long-established relations with English writers have met "authorized editions" by reprisals of unauthorized reprints. Naturally, English authors rejoice in the advent of new competitors for advance sheets, who raise the price above the old honorarium, and as they have much less loyalty to their publisher than American writers and are indeed quite in the habit of scattering or alternating their books among several houses, the Lovell combination in particular has succeeded in divorcing several English writers from their old relations. The latest instance in point is that of Mr. Jas. Payn, whose letter to Messrs. Lovell is printed in a communication from them. The Harpers, who had been Mr. Payn's authorized publishers for thirty or forty of his novels, including those best known, sent him the usual honorarium for "The Burnt Million," and the check was not received back until after the appearance of the statement in The Critic as to its sending. Of the thirty-four books which this house had published by authorization of Mr. Payn, seven at least had been reprinted on them recently, hence the reprisal in the case of "The Burnt Million." Such reprisals are nevertheless unfortunate, to say the least, in the present advanced stage of copyright progress, and it would seem to be more just and dignified on the part of such eminent houses as those of Messrs. Harper and Holt to recognize "authorizations," so far as they go, rather than to continue the game of "tit for tat." So long as the foreign author is denied "rights," his desires should be fairly respected.

THE organization of the American Book Co. has evidently given suggestion for the reorganization of the Lovell combination into its final shape of the United States Book Co. The men who have really been backing this enterprise now come visibly to the front, with large capital and considerable brains. Its development will be watched by the trade with interest and anxiety.

THE UNITED STATES BOOK COMPANY.

ON the 8th inst. was consummated a movement that has been on foot for months—the capitalization of the Lovell Company on a new basis and its transformation into The United States Book Company. The new concern, which filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State of New Jersey at Trenton, will have a capital of three and a quarter million dollars, and have its headquarters in New York City. The Board of Directors will be Horace K. Thurber, Samuel Thomas, Chester W. Chapin, Edward Lange, and John W. Lovell, of New York City; Michael A. Donohue, of Chicago; James D. Safford, of Springfield, Mass.; James A. Taylor, of Plainfield, N. J., and Erastus Wiman. At a meeting to be held in Jersey City on the 12th, the organization will be completed and the officers elected. It is expected that H. K. Thurber will be President, John W. Lovell Vice-President, and Edward Lange Treasurer.

The company will carry on the business of the Lovell Company, as noted above, with increased capital, which, we understand, has all been paid in. Arrangements, it is claimed, have been made with Hurst & Co., Worthington Co., W. L. Allison, the Alden Book Co., G. W. Dillingham, Dodd, Mead & Co., the Empire Publishing Co., Estes & Lauriat, De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., the Aldine Book Publishing Co., J. B. Lyon of Albany, Donohue & Henneberry, Belford, Clarke Co., J. B. Lippincott Co., the National Publishing Co., and Frank A. Munsey & Co., to stop publishing certain lines of non-copy-right books for a certain time. In every other respect the business of publishing will be carried on on the lines laid down by Mr. Lovell during the last six months.

THE USE AND DEVELOPMENT OF SIGNATURES.

MR. WM. BLADES, previous to his death, commenced a series of "Bibliographical Miscellanies," * the first of which is devoted to "The use and development of Signatures in Books." Beginning with the definition: "Signatures are the sign or mark which printers place beneath certain

* Published by Bladés, East & Blades, 23 Abchurch-lane, London. 32 pp. dem. Price 1s 6d.

AFTER this issue had been printed we were advised that the J. B. Lippincott Company deny unqualifiedly the statement that they have discontinued the publication of non-copyright English books, as appears in the notice of the United States Book Co. On the contrary, they have just completed arrangements with a number of foreign authors and publishers for a simultaneous issue of their works in the United States.

pages for the convenience of binder, and to distinguish the sequence of the sections (sometimes styled quires or gatherings) which they print"—he refers to the origin of these indications: "The doctrine of development and the survival of the fittest has thrown floods of light upon many dark places in the natural history of plants and animals, and I believe the same doctrine may be made equally useful in the study of bibliography. The half-penny newspaper of to-day, with its rotten material and blurred impression, seems, at first, to have nothing in common with the beautiful vellum manuscripts of the middle ages; and yet the one is the true descendant of the other, and it was only by slow degrees that the printer's progeny parted with their family likeness to the aristocratic products of the professional scribe. The survival of the fittest is plainly shown in the development of signatures. The simple consecutive number which is used by modern printers to indicate the sequence of the sheet, is the true survivor of various ways of signing books from the 9th to the 19th century. The chief use of signatures was and is for the binder. Binding is certainly as old as books. Signatures are certainly as old as binders. It is conceivable that the early monastic scribe, who made his own parchment, concocted his own writing ink, copied leisurely, with his own hand, the Bible or Psalter, and, lastly, bound them propria manu, might complete his work without wanting any signature to help him; or, at any rate, might be satisfied with placing a catchword at the end of each section as a guide to the sequence. But when the manufacture of books passed from the monk's scriptorium into the hands of trade guilds, and the increased demand for books caused a great subdivision of labor; and when, instead of one, a manuscript would pass through a dozen workmen's hands before completion, then signatures became a necessity, as much for the scribe as for the binder, as necessary for the collation of the early ms. as for the steam-printed novel of to-day. When printing was invented, no new method of signatures was at first adopted. The Mazarin Bible, for instance, which is a large folio, was printed page by page and signed by the pen at the foot of the first four rectos of each signature, just as if it had been a manuscript. Printers could not, without difficulty, copy the custom of the scribes, and print their signatures at foot, because two or three types at a distance from the body of the page would certainly be broken off by the pressure; so finding the ms. signatures troublesome and often hard to read, they tried the plan of stamping them in with types by hand at the extreme edge, nearly always at foot, though sometimes at the fore-edge. This development was scarcely an improvement, and is only found in a few books from the Italian press of the years 1465-76. Then the printers, instead of hand-stamping, tried printing them at the very foot, and by the same pull of the press. This plan had no life in it, and it was then that the bright and bold idea struck a Cologne printer to ignore the ugliness and place his type signatures close up to the solid page. The custom soon spread and became general, and curious it is to notice how this slight development has given rise to numerous mistaken arguments on the so-called 'invention of signatures.'" Mr. Blades therefore "concludes that the idea of books without signatures is a bibliographical delusion." The pamphlet contains much interesting information as to the origin of the use of paper, of the sizes of books and their nomenclature, and the mediæval method of signing different forms. He shows that "all sizes being signed alike, the signatures cannot with early printed books be any guide as to size." With the Miscellany are given two fac-simile illustrations—one of a printed book with a written signature, and one with a signature from a type, stamped in by hand.

Mr. Blades had himself put into type, to form four more numbers of the series, an expansion of the paper on "Chained Libraries," which he read before the Library Association last October, and which was then printed in the Library (vol. 1, pp. 411-416). The first of these has just appeared, dealing with the well known chained library at Wimborne, which, indeed, suggested the subject to the author. It is illustrated with a woodcut of the library (from a photograph) and of the chains. The other parts, it is stated, will describe other chained libraries in the United Kingdom and elsewhere—particularly that at Hereford Cathedral and the Laurentian at Florence, and will be illustrated with seven photo-collotype plates. In this connection it may be noted that there is a small collection of some half-dozen chained books in the parish church at Minehead; and also a similar collection at Basingstoke, which the church-wardens' accounts show to have been chained as late as 1723. Mr. Blades' third paper in the Library, on "Paper and Paper-marks" (pp. 217-223), was also intended by him for independent publication in this series, and, it is to be hoped, will be added to it. G.

BOWDLERIZING.

THIS is a term used very frequently in contempt of a prudish attempt to "emasculate" a book. Many of our readers may not be aware of the origin of the expression, and the following from the Book-Lover may supply interesting information as to a term which has well been adopted into the technical vocabulary of the bibliophile. It is, however, somewhat unfair to connect with the word reproach on a man who, from the purest motives, rendered a great service to lovers of English literature and students of Shakespeare:

Thomas Bowdler was an Englishman, born in 1754 and dying in 1825. He has a well-deserved place in the history of English literature by reason of his "Letters from Holland," published in 1788, a biographical work ("Life of General Vilette") published in 1815, and essays on "Liberty, Civil and Religious," published the following year. All this was before the publication (in 1818) of "The Family Shakespeare," in which, to quote his own words, "nothing is added to the original text: but those words and expressions are omitted which cannot with propriety be read aloud in a family." Whatever may be said by book-lovers and Shakespearean critics regarding the "unnecessary prudery" of this edition, the fact is that this "Family Shakespeare," and the more recent editions following its example, has enabled Shakespeare to be made the subject of general study as could not otherwise have been done. For it is worthy to be noted that when the works of Shakespeare are taken up for study in schools, or in literary clubs, the edition used is more or less an expurgated one. The Shakespeare used in public readings, even the Shakespeare which we see represented upon the stage, omits all that Bowdler omitted.

And while our modern household editions retain much that we never quote in public, they omit much that was quite in the spirit of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, but is happily not colloquial in the nineteenth. To the bibliophile the "Family Shakespeare" is of little value. But the Shakespeare that is known, read, and quoted from by the great mass of true lovers of English literature, is the outgrowth of the first effort at "Bowdlerism."

The Edinburgh Review, edited at the time by Jeffrey, in commenting upon the "Family Shakespeare," stated that its expurgations included only "those gross indecencies which every one must have felt as blemishes." But this language needs to be qualified. The "gross indecencies" of the original Shakespeare are only felt to be "blemishes" as regards the public use of Shakespeare among us of the nineteenth century. It cannot be denied that as a higher literary study, such a study as is made by the few only, the unexpurgated Shakespeare is the best. For without its "gross indecencies" it does not reflect the age in which the "sweet bard of Avon" lived and produced his wonderful plays.

Bowdler made a similar effort with regard to Gibbon's "Decline and Fall," but it was less happy. In his "Family Gibbon" he attempted to purge the world-famous history of that great author "of all passages of an irreligious or immoral tendency," but the result failed to become popular in itself, or to inaugurate a system of expurgations of such a character, and the book is little known and never read. For a wide difference exists between language that is indecent and that which is of an irreligious tendency. The very use of the former carries with it harm. It demoralizes the user and society at large. We would not wish the "gross indecencies" common in the sixteenth century to become current in this century. But the effect of works of an irreligious tendency can be counteracted. To expurgate a passage of such a character from a book, is to send abroad the impression that it is far easier to deal thus with it than to answer it and correct it, and in this way error may be allowed to win a temporary victory over truth. Gibbon is an acknowledged standard, and no expurgated copy is ever used; and yet little harm has come to religion through his sneers at Christianity.

CEMENT AND GLUE TO STICK ON ANYTHING.

PROFESSOR ALEXANDER WINCHELL is credited with the invention of a cement that will stick on anything. Take 2 ounces of clear gum arabic, $1\frac{1}{2}$ ounce of fine starch, $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce of white sugar. Pulverize the gum arabic, and dissolve it in as much water as the laundress would use for the quantity of the starch indicated. Dissolve the starch and sugar in the gum solution. Then cook the mixture in a vessel suspended in boiling water until the starch becomes clear. The cement should be as thick as tar, and kept so. It can be kept from spoiling by dropping in a lump of gum camphor, or a little oil of cloves or sassafras. This cement is very strong, and will stick perfectly to glazed surfaces, and is good to repair broken rocks, minerals or fossils.—Patent Review.

A RECEIPT for a glue that will make leather adhere to iron.—Add about 5 per cent of glycerine to good glue, and just before using add 5 per cent. extract of oak bark or tannic acid. Use thick and hot.—Scientific American.

COMMUNICATIONS.

MR. JAMES PAYN'S EXPLANATION in re
"THE BURNT MILLION."

NEW YORK, July 8, 1890.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: Mr. James Payn, concerning whose novel, "The Burnt Million," there was some discussion a short time ago, writes as follows to our London representative:

"I see in the Critic that it is stated by Messrs. Harper Bros. that they sent me a check for 'The Burnt Million.' They have omitted to add that I returned it. The world is not yet so happily managed that an author can get paid twice over for the same work. JAMES PAYN."

This statement, from Mr. Payn himself, will doubtless remove whatever erroneous impression may have arisen in the minds of some as to our right in claiming the authorized edition of Mr. Payn's work.

Yours very truly,

JOHN W. LOVELL CO.

"The collecting of rare books," says Lord Rosebery, the owner of Mentmore and the Durdans and Dalmeny, with a collection of rare books in each, "is a virtue very nearly akin to vice. It is a virtue on which the closest watch must be kept lest it lapse into a moral disease."

THERE seems to be a marked decline of late years, says the London Athenæum, "in the value of the well-known Abbotsford edition of the Waverley novels, of which a copy was sold for ten guineas in the recent dispersal of Sir Edward Sullivan's library. A few years ago booksellers readily paid from £12 to £14 for a copy. It is not generally known that in printing the book a number of copies were wrongly paginated, but as the sheets were correctly designated at the foot the error escaped detection both by the binder and the public."

THE manuscripts of Wilkie Collins' novels, which we mentioned some time ago, were brought to the hammer at the rooms of Messrs. Sotheby on June 11. They fetched over £1300. The MS. of "The Woman in White" sold for £320;

"The Moonstone," £125; "Armada," £101; and "No Name," £85. The manuscript of "The Frozen Deep," in Collins' handwriting, with annotations by Dickens, the prompt-book, and the ms. of the story were put up as one lot on the same occasion, and brought £300; while the ms. of "The Perils of Certain English Prisoners" (the Christmas number of Household Words for 1857) sold for £200.

IN RE the "Hint to Byron Collectors" reprinted from the Publishers' Circular in your issue of June 28, Walter Jerrold writes to the former journal that he has a copy of the fourth edition of the "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers" bound in gray boards, lettered on the back "English Bards, 4th Edition, 6s.," and printed on very thick paper, the watermark of which is "J Whatman, 1805." Mark Cann also writes that he has a copy of the third edition, Cawthorn, 1810, in which the watermarks vary. On the fly-leaf it is 1809, with no name; on page 5 it is E. & P., 1805; across pages 17-31 is J. Whatman, 1805; across pages 37-43 is Edmeads & P., 1807; across pages 53-59 is Edmeads & Pine, 1807; across pages 67-77 is Edmeads & Pine, 1807; page 81, E. & P., 1804. In another copy of the third edition Cawthorn, 1810, the watermark is Pine & Thomas, 1812, throughout.

A PRIVATE despatch by cable, says the N. Y. Times, "announces the death in Paris of Cuzin, the bookbinder, to whom was awarded the highest prize of the last Exposition Universelle. He was sixty years of age. His loss is irreparable for the classicists among the patrons of the art of bookbinding, to whom the anonymous artisans of the Renaissance were creators of perfect models. A contemporary of Trautz-Bauzonnet and Lortic, he was the last of the quatour, with which, in the view of the bibliopagists of the old school, the great art of bookbinding comes to an end. Cuzin did all his work with his own hands, even to the stitching of his pages, esteeming it a duty as sacred as for a painter to let no collaborator intervene, having a high estimate of his art, and disregarding in his devotion to it all pecuniary considerations. He had no pupils, and his elder son is not out of college. Mr. Samuel P. Avery and Mr. C. Jolly Bavouillot have in their libraries admirable specimens of his work, but his masterpiece is his 'Swan's Song.' It is the binding in dark brown morocco, dotted with skulls and cross, bones in blind-tooling, lined with white vellum-framed in a border decorated with the emblems of death, entirely in the style of the sixteenth century, made for Holbein's 'Simulachres.' The book is of the first edition, printed at Lyons in 1538, an uncut copy, measuring 192½ millimetres, whereas the Rothschild copy measures only 189. Cuzin put his heart into his work. It was sent to him on the 16th of June, 1889, and was finished in time to reach its owner, Mr. W. L. Bennett, of New Haven, Conn., on the 16th of last month, day for day."

NOT THAT KIND OF A COOK-BOOK.—A gentleman stepped into one of the enterprising bookstores in New-Jersey a week or so ago and asked for "The Autocrat at the Breakfast Table." The earnest clerk looked very carefully among the cook-books and returned to his customer and said: "We haven't 'The Autocrat at the Breakfast Table,' sir, but," he added persuasively, "many like this better," and he handed over the counter "Household Receipts."—N. Y. Tribune.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The W. J. C. Dulany Company, of Baltimore City, has purchased the stock, good-will, etc., belonging to the firm of Wm. J. C. Dulany & Co., 8 Baltimore Street, East. The officers of the new company are Wm. J. C. Dulany, President; John M. Dulany, Vice-President; and Adolph Lohmeyer, Secretary and Treasurer. The Dulanys have been established in the book business for nearly forty years and during that time have won the respect and confidence of their brethren in the book trade. The new organization will carry on the business with enlarged facilities and renewed energies. May it succeed beyond its expectations.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—Mr. Pollen, bookseller and stationer, has removed his stock to the new Leddy building.

DALLAS, TEX.—Kirn, Mitchell & Co., booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. Alfred Holland continues the business in his own name.

DAYTON, O.—William C. Mayer will continue under his own name the book business formerly carried on under the firm-name of Mayer & Van Sant, Mr. M. W. Vant Sant having retired.

GRANDBURG, TEX.—E. Mergert, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Mergert & Son.

KALAMAZOO, MICH.—Robert L. Parkin and John A. Gibb have purchased the stock of books and stationery of Geo. W. Young.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—W. R. Hogsett, who has been a partner since 1878 of the firm of M. H. Dickinson & Co., booksellers and stationers, 620 Main Street, has retired. He is succeeded by T. E. Bryant, long and favorably connected with the management of the retail department of the firm. The business will be conducted as heretofore under the firm-name of M. H. Dickinson & Co.

NEW YORK CITY.—The interest in the book business formerly belonging to W. J. Weedon has been purchased by his daughter (Miss Annie H. Weedon), who will carry on the business, adding blank-books and stationery.

NEW YORK CITY.—A. S. Barnes & Co. are removing their stock from their old corner at William Street to the building of the American Book Company, 751 Broadway.

ST. CLOUD, MINN.—W. C. Montgomery, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by T. C. Boorn.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS add to their Yellow Paper Series this month Marion Harland's "With the Best Intentions" and Edward Everett Hale's "Philip Nolan's Friends."

D. APPLETON & Co. call attention to the fact that the price of Sara Jeanette Duncan's book, "A Social Departure," is $1.75, not $1.50, as it appeared in their advertisement in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, July 5.

FREDERICK KEPPEL & Co., N. Y., have published a useful little pamphlet entitled "Suggestions on Framing," advice and hints in regard to the framing and hanging of pictures, written by Frederick Keppel.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR CO., New York, have bought the book jobbing stock and the good-will of that part of the business lately controlled by A. S. Barnes & Co. The stock has been delivered and the Baker & Taylor Co. are now ready to fill any order that may be sent to them.

DONOHUE & HENNEBERRY, Chicago, have just issued a volume by Judge John P. Altgeld entitled "Live Questions," in which he discusses in a forceful and readable manner many subjects of interest to the general reader, including protection to non-combatants, compulsory arbitration of strikes, divorces, moral training, etc.

J. S. OGILVIE has in preparation sets of the complete works of Dickens, Scott, Eliot, and Cooper, and of Irving's select works. He also has in preparation an edition of Doré's Bible Gallery, and calls attention to a full line of twelvemos, embracing two hundred and ten titles, and a long line of paper novels at low figures.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. have added to their twenty-five cent series of popular fiction "Fair Play," by Mrs. Southworth; "Worth the Wooing," by Lady Gladys Hamilton; "Britomarte, the Man-Hater," by Mrs. Southworth; "Sifting Matrimony," by the author of "Society Rapids"; "How He Won Her," by Mrs. Southworth; "India, Pearl of Pearl River," by Mrs. Southworth; "The Captive Bride," by Mrs. Southworth; and "Society Rapids, High Life in Washington, Saratoga, Bar Harbor."

THIS month will witness a great gathering of the Eastern book men in Chicago. The Palmer House will be the headquarters for representatives from all the leading publishing houses in the East, including Harper & Bros., Dodd, Mead & Co., Porter & Coates, E. P. Dutton & Co., Roberts Bros., Lee & Shepard, Geo. Routledge & Sons, Estes & Lauriat, Lippincott Co., and a number of others. This will afford dealers in the West an opportunity to transact business as well as at the houses themselves at a considerable saving of travelling expenses and time. We hear that the display made is quite attractive and fine

MUDIE, it is reported, took 3000 copies of Mr. Stanley's "In Darkest Africa."

THE BÖRSENVEREIN OF GERMAN BOOKSELLERS appointed, at its general meeting on May 4, a committee to work out a set of official publishing regulations for the German publishing trade.

MR. HENRY MARCH GILBERT, "Ye Olde Boke Shoppe," Southampton, announces a work of considerable literary and artistic interest, entitled "Vestiges of Old Southampton," which will consist of etchings of Henry the Eighth's Palace, Bar Gate, St. Michael's Church, Arundel Tower, South Castle, and other historical buildings in the quaint and picturesque streets of the beautiful town. These etchings are the work of Mr. Frank McFadden, a local artist of considerable renown. The descriptive letterpress has been written by Mr. T. W. Shore, F.G.S. The work will be published in parts and by subscription.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

CAN any one give us the address of the purchaser of the plates of "Goldsmith" sold at the sale of Rand, Avery Co., Boston, about two years ago?
M. E. B.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

views*, and back numbers of some three thousand different periodicals, for sale, cheap, at THE AMERICAN AND FOREIGN MAGAZINE DEPOT, 47 Dey St., New York.

NOTICE TO THE TRADE.—If you require wants to complete serial publications, foreign or domestic magazines, reviews, or periodicals of any description, the largest stock in the United States is to be found at JOHN BEACHAM'S, 7 Barclay Street, New York.

Gebbie & Co.'s New Publications and Importations.

Dieulafoy (Mdme. Jane). At Susa.—The Ancient Capital of the Kings of Persia. Narrative of travel through western Persia and excavations made at the site of the Lost City of the Lilies, 1884–1886. Translated from the French by FRANK LINSLOW WHITE. Beautifully illustrated with map and 121 engravings, drawn by Barclay, Bida, Girardet, Myrbach, Slom, Taylor, etc., etc., after photographs taken by the Dieulafoy expedition. In one handsome volume. 4to, cloth, gilt extra, $5.00.

FINE ART EDITION OF MILTON.

Milton. The Complete Poetical Works of John Milton. With Biography and Notes by Bishop NEWTON. Printed from new, large type, specially made for this edition. Superbly illustrated with 50 photogravures by the Gebbie & Husson Co., Limited, from paintings and drawings by Westall, Martin, Vertue, Burney, Landseer, and other famous masters. India Proof Edition. 2 vols., 4to, cloth, gilt extra, $15.00.

This is without exception the most superb library edition of Milton that has ever been produced.

Shakespeare Gallery (The Cabinet). Consisting of 51 exquisite photogravure illustrations, printed in various color tints, by the Gebbie & Husson Co., Limited, of famous Shakespearean scenes from paintings by the best masters, and character portraits of the most popular actors and actresses of to-day, interleaved with the compendium and index of characters to Shakespeare's Complete Works. In one handsome volume. 8vo, cloth, gilt extra, $5.00.

Lamb (Charles). Adventures of Ulysses. With an introduction by ANDREW LANG. New edition, with index of proper names and explanatory notes, illustrated with map and engravings. 8vo, cloth, gilt, $1.50.

NEW ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH EDITION.

Taine's History of English Literature. Translated from the French by HENRY VAN LAUN. Best English library edition. Illustrated with 25 fine photogravure portraits reproduced from original and rare prints by the Gebbie & Husson Photogravure Co., Limited. 4 vols., 8vo, cloth extra, gilt top, in box, $10.00; half calf, gilt extra, in box, $20.00; without the illustrations, 4 vols., 8vo, cloth, in box, $7.50; half calf extra, in box, $15.00.

Touchstone. Race Horses and Thoroughbred Stallions, English and French, which appeared on the turf from 1764 to 1887. Their pedigree, description, and history. Translated from the French by C. B. PITMAN, and preceded with a preface by the Duke of Beaufort. Profusely illustrated with sixty colored plates by V. Cotlison, L. Pénicaut, and Le Nail, and also one hundred and thirty-four vignettes in the text, all colored by hand. In one handsome volume. Oblong 4to, half mor., cloth sides, gilt top, $30.00.

A NEW SPORTING BOOK.

Blue Ribbon of the Turf (The). Being an account of all the famous horses that have won, the English Derby, with a description of the races from the commencement to the present time from Diomed, 1780, to Sainfoin, 1890, and a particular narrative of all the celebrated jockeys and betting men of the time, and also the owners of the horses, and other magnates of the turf, by LOUIS HENRY CURZON. Crown 8vo, cloth extra, gilt, $1.75.

Reid (Captain Mayne). The Naturalist in Siluria. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, gilt, $1.00.

This new book by Mayne Reid was left in ms. at his death in 1883, and not until 1889 did his widow place it in the hands of a publisher. Any careful reader of Captain Mayne Reid's tales of adventure will have discovered that one of his strongest points is his accurate description of natural scenery, and it was therefore to be expected that after retiring from his wanderings to his home in Wales he should keep up his taste for natural history—the result of which is the present volume of personal observations of what he saw and heard around him.

Advice to Young Men and Boys. A series of addresses delivered to the pupils of Girard College, by B. B. COMEGYS. Illustrated with six photogravure portraits. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.75.

This is a handsomely printed volume, with photogravure illustrations of the eminent men mentioned. The author finds in the lives of the eminent men he introduces, the principles and the characteristics that he desires to impress upon them, and he illustrates his points so simply and clearly and earnestly as to make them more than usually impressive.

When Mother Was Little. By S. P. YORKE. With thirteen full-page illustrations by Henry J. Ford. Small square 8vo, cloth extra, $1.00.

"It is just such a warm, living picture of the past which children can understand and with which they can sympathize. This is a very nice book, and is prettily illustrated."—Glasgow Herald.

Good Men and True. Biographies of workers in the fields of beneficence and benevolence. By ALEXANDER H. JAPP, LL.D., author of "Golden Lives," "Life of Thoreau," etc. Seven full-page illustrations. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.50.
